

I do not wish for the bankers association to be able to call members who are on the do not call list. There are enough people who can already call with this list. Also if they wish to promote new products, they can send their members information or advertise in some other manner than the telephone.